before she had been placed there and was released on probation. Waterbury police wanted her to stay for a week, but she refused.

HAD HOT AND COOL.
The bride of a week vanished last month after dropping from the hospital window. The only one found was a handkerchief, which was picked up in Greenwood Park, behind the hospital. She was civil in her manners, black and blue coat and black shoes.

She had taken the hot and cool both belonging to another patient from a chest and another patient from under her bed.

Mrs. Brownell was kept in Ward 2, with eight other inmates, none of them dangerously insane. The nurse in charge of the ward was in the ward at the time she went out the window.

The nurse was tending to a patient at 5:12 this morning when she suddenly heard the scream of another woman.

REMOVED WINDOW BLOCKS.
Earlier in the day the best window in the ward was removed. Several blocks which served as a sort of barrier work at the top of the window were removed to permit the passage of air.

It was at that time that Mrs. Brownell was seen sleeping outside the window of the ward.

The upper ash could not be opened more than seven and a half inches, even with these blocks out. The lower half of the window was guarded by iron bars.

At the house where she was going out, she rushed to the window and opened it. Her sister, but Mrs. Brownell let her go and dropped to the ground.

"She got up and was off like a deer," the nurse said.

ASKED WITH PARENTS.
Mr. and Mrs. Brownell were present at the hospital when the girl was taken to the asylum.

"When I was her father said she begged me to take her out," said Mrs. Brownell.

"I was very surprised to see her because I promised her I'd get her released," she said.

Mrs. Brownell declared that when Brownell visited his daughter at the hospital there were always scenes during which the girl said:

"I'll make you people pay for this. I'll make you people pay for this."

"I'll make you people pay for this. I'll make you people pay for this."

Funds and Literature Secretly Supplied by Lucas Brings Break

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—Wade H. Cooper, president of the Commercial National Bank, told the Senate Campaign Funds Committee today the $800 loan given to Robert H. Lucas to help finance the campaign against Senator Norris of Nebraska was "backed" by a letter from the Republican National Committee, and was authorized by James B. Reynolds, a former treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and not a vice president of the bank.

Washington, Dec. 22—A Republican split of wide and significant proportions has been precipitated by the revelation the Republican National Committee, through its executive director, Robert H. Lucas, secretly supplied funds and literature in an effort to defeat Senator George W. Norris, veteran Republican insurgent, in the Nebraska election last November.

Perhaps it will be too much to compare the quarrel to that which preceded the split in 1912, but certainly the party has faced no such situation since that memorable break between the conservative and progressive elements in the organization.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE PRESIDENT DENOUNCES PROHIBITION RULE

LAW TERMED BARRIER TO TEMPERANCE

Hopkins Sees the Underworld Thriving on Liquor Money as a Result of Act

Hanover, N. H., Dec. 22 (INS). — Breaking a silence of a decade, President Ernest Martin Hopkins of Dartmouth College today registered a militant opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment.

Expressing his belief in the value of temperance, the famous educator, in a letter to the National Temperance Council, assailed the prohibition law on the ground that:

1.—An underworld empire of enormous power had been subsidized by hundreds of millions of dollars for corruption by money diverted from the collection of government excise on liquor.

2.—The amendment has been of little advantage to anybody, and sections of the country which were "dry" are now "saturated with liquor."

3.—He failed to see how individuals or organizations whose sole duty is for building up a spirit of temperance can continue to believe in or to support the theory or the practice of the Eighteenth Amendment as defined in current legislation.

4.—The Volstead Act has "made conditions worse than they were and has precluded the accomplishment of anything which makes of a nature of a temperance movement."

5.—The law, which has traveled extensively throughout the country, saw "industrial efficiency" as the only possible advantage in the enactment of the amendment, and in the "mass of legislation which followed in its trail."

HOPKINS LETTER

The letter of President Hopkins in part follows:

"I have free convictions as strong as my belief in the value and indispensability of a temperance practice, of temperance among a people which wishes to realize its best possibilities. I would not knowingly argue against or oppose any movement which made for temperance."

"For many years, in the assumption that prohibition would eventually show prohibition to be conducive to temperance, I have kept silent in regard to my belief that the whole theory of the Eighteenth Amendment was pernicious. I felt very strongly that this amendment gave me much justification to publishing up great numbers in the federal government as against holding local communities responsible for the conduct of their own temperance efforts."

"Nevertheless, I was not sure that the amendment might not prove an incentive to the development of their own temperance efforts."

"Now, however, looking back over a period of years, I am at least the tendencies developed by the amendment can be shown. I cannot see in the large that advantage has accrued to anybody, even possibly to industrial efficiency, in the enactment of the amendment and in the legislation which has followed in its trail."

"I do not believe that it is a proper function of the constitution of a great republic to attempt to legislate the United States into a device of the United States for personal conduct."

Famous Yale Professor Says "Pay as Much Attention to Living as to Gold"

Agents (S. Dec. 22 (AP). — With 28 years' experience as a lecturer behind him, Dr. William Phelps has concluded that marriage would be happier if the contracting parties would give as much attention to the art of living as they give to the perfection of a good golf stroke.

"There are no hard and fast rules for being happily married," Dr. Phelps continued, "except the application of ordinary common sense and mutual consideration. Being happily married is merely the development of the art of living to its unadorned degree. There is no legend about it, and really it cannot be taught."

The professor, who is vacationing here with his wife, characterized yesterday a celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary as "the

Put on Your Specs, Relief Is in Sight

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Senator La Follette got up a terrific list of the unemployed in Texas.

But Bob rang in a lot of Mexicans on us.

When a senator really feels sorry for you he cries so hard that your rheumatism comes back.

President Hoover won a big victory over Congress when his relief measures went through without the usual amendments.

Mr. Hoover is going to distribute the relief himself. Hope we don't have to learn to talk Belgian to get it.

Now everybody is happy. We will take the wrinkles out of our national vest with a big deal. The farmers will get higher catalogues, the laborers will be drier, the rivers wider and the weather biker will get a gold-plated goose.

There will be no extra session of the Senate for international snuffing on the World Court and by-products. The President is happy too.

He earned a moral victory over the politicians. Knowing a politician's morals the way we do you know the score must have been 72 to 0.

Now let us get that relief money in the ultimate consumer before he becomes too ultimate.

We trust that Mr. Hoover reflects reliable messengers for the distribution of the money. One of the relief messengers heard was in never send a cabbage leaf by a rabbit.

SAUGUS GARDEN GLOWS AGAIN

The illuminated garden at the Peabody estate at Saugus will be lighted this evening for the 10th Christmas exhibition that attracts thousands from all over the State and New England. The illumination will last until January 6.

Many innovations have been made through additions and changes in color schemes. Last year there were 100 strings holding more than 20,000 lights. Last year four or five thousand bulbs were being added.

The celebrated grape arbor with the thousands of lights representing Concord, Niagara and Delaware grapes, a golden garden with a forest of red candles illuminated from within, and towering eight feet in the air the Maypole with its 500 red and green bolls, a new illuminated with colored lights from below, the only part of the brilliant displays that will be open to the public this evening.

CHILDREN CRY FOR MORE FOOD AT MEALTIME

For her children's sake a Malden mother has appealed to the Boston Evening American Helping Hand for food and clothing. At mealtime her three little girls cry for more food. Her husband has been out of work for three months.

This is her first appeal for help and she is doing it for her children. She has tried to make ends meet but it has been useless.

Anyone wishing to help this family may secure the name and address by calling Liberty 4008, the Helping Hand Department.

MOTHER ASKS AID

(Refer to Case 143)

I am lucky enough to get three days' work which just about keeps bread, butter, and some milk for the children. It's four months since my husband did anything. He goes out every morning and comes back with the same sad story. I can't find a thing. It's a sad proposition. I have three children—three girls and they cry for more when it comes to eating time. I would appreciate very much if I got a basket and some warm dresses for the children and stockings. Where I live it is very cold and I try my best to keep their feet warm. Their ages are 4, 3 and 2 years.

This woman lives in Malden. Anybody wishing to help may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4008, and refer to Case 143.

FAMILY IN NEED

(Refer to Case 144)

Is there any way possible that you could help me for Christmas? My husband has not been working for the past three months. I have five small children and am destitute in the line of clothing and food for them and fuel. The only fire I have is a little wood my husband and boy pick up around. I am a month behind in rent and three weeks behind in my insurance. I have not asked for help before but I am forced to ask this year. I have four girls, ages 11, 10, 6 and 3 years. They all need dresses, stockings and shoes. The boy is 13 years old.

This woman lives in Chelsea. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4008, and refer to Case 144.

GIRL ASKS AID

(Refer to Case 145)

Will you please help me? My father left us three months ago. I am 12 years old. There are nine in our family. My little sister is two years old. So it is hard for my mother to leave her to go to work. Please don't forget us. This girl lives in East Boston. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4008, and refer to Case 145.

GIRL NEEDS WARM COAT

(Refer to Case 146)

I am 14 years old and I have looked for work but can't find it and there is no one working in my house and we would be glad if someone could help us out until my brother or sister or myself could get work. I wish someone would give my little sister a winter coat. She is 10 years old.

Some days we have bread and tea and then today we did not have anything. My father is ill and my oldest brother just came out of the hospital and my mother is heartbroken because there is no food or coal for the house.

This girl lives in South Boston. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4008, and refer to Case 146.

SIX-MAN JURY IS OPPOSED BY FOLEY

Dist. Atty. William J. Foley took issue with the retiring district attorney of Essex county, William G. Clark, who suggested abolition of appeals except in felonies, and juries of only six men.

Dist. Atty. Foley said he could see no relief for crowded dockets, as predicted by Dist. Atty. Clark, of lower court appeals were abolished. He pointed out that at present 60 to 70 per cent of cases are disposed of in lower court, but if the right of appeal were abolished many would go direct to Superior Court.

Referring to the suggestion of a six-man jury, Dist. Atty. Foley said a constitutional amendment would be required to change the law.

Clark, on the eve of his retirement, would do away with appeals in all cases not involving felony, would have all such cases tried in the lower courts where the findings would be final; would have all civil cases tried without delay by lower court judges and make their finding final, and would create a jury of six to pass upon cases in the lower courts.

The Essex County official, senior district attorney in the State in point of service, admitted the changes would require constitutional amendments, but declared they would save the State thousands of dollars.

GRAND JURY IN 'FRAMING' QUIZ

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—White departmental trial of four patrolmen continued at police headquarters today the district attorney's office began presentation of evidence before a grand jury on a charge of perjury against one of the patrolmen.

On trial with Stizlin are John P. Drake, George J. Treubert and Peter F. Lamb. Additional departmental charges were made today against Sergt. Christopher Convey and Patrolman Michael J. Kennedy.

Paris, Dec. 22 (HNS)—America is "a place for the artist, according to "Sem," French caricaturist, who recently returned from a sojourn on the other side.

Sem found New York too big and fast for working. Sem did not like the "spendables" and thinks there are far too many of them in New York.

"New Yorkers do not become happy until they are nearly drunk," says Sem. "That is what struck me as very funny."

LUPE VELEZ MAY BE INDIAN GIRL IN "SQUAW MAN"

FILM CAST AT WORK SOON

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor for Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22—Howard Hughes is engaging talent with a prodigious hand. That eminent critic and sometime amusing satirist, Robert Benchley, arrives here shortly after the first of the year to write for Mr. Hughes and perhaps act. Benchley enjoys acting.

True, Benchley was here before, but, unfortunately, he didn't register. Perhaps because the Fox Co. had his own ideas as to how he should play his part in the picture. That was because he was more of a comedian than a serious actor. Benchley may do something different this time. Goodness knows he has a large following of readers here who have his sense of humor, particularly when he acts. It is the world what he thinks of certain New York stage drama.

IF YOU KNOW ANYTHING about your movies, you are familiar with the William Cagney character. He is famous the world over. Mr. Cagney, who has been with United Artists for years, has now signed a contract with the Fox Co. to direct the film. He will have as his co-director on his first Fox picture, Kenneth McKenna. William Cagney, who has been with United Artists for years, has now signed a contract with the Fox Co. to direct the film. He will have as his co-director on his first Fox picture, Kenneth McKenna.

ONE OF THE MOST generally rumored reports around Hollywood is that Lupe Velez will take the part of the Indian girl in the Spanish play, "The Squaw Man." True, the representative of C. M. Mille denied that Lupe would play the part. But she has denied that she has been invited to play the part. And she has denied that she has been invited to play the part. And she has denied that she has been invited to play the part.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random. MAXIE PICKFORD, who is smart, dissembling but with a real val, arrived after a long stay in BEBE DANIELS' house. DOUGLAS and MARY, leaving with DOUGLAS, entertaining on the hunting expedition. "FALL, BIRDY, FALL," the evening congratulation. BOONALY COLMAN, picture which was a hit. JOSEPH SCHENCK, picture which was a hit. BEBE DANIELS and RALPH BLUM, CARMEL MYERS, who is a genius, has been invited to leave for New York City. JOE WILLIAMS, who is a genius, has been invited to leave for New York City. MARY, who is a genius, has been invited to leave for New York City.

OWES MUCH TO THE BARD

When Donald Ogden Stewart's smart comedy "Rebound" began to play the Metropolitan, the copy, the only of the series, and outpoken Sam Jeffery, who is in the hands of the series, and altogether charming Vera Allen, whom Beaumont Newhall in Shakespearean repertory at the Wilbur last March.

Miss Allen's first experience behind the footlights came shortly after her graduation from Barnard College, when she accepted the role in "The Playboy" at the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York. Her work there is now established here as a permanent member of this enterprising theatrical group, and for three seasons.

KEITH BOSTON HOLIDAY BILL GOES BIG

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ
An EXCELLENT HOLIDAY bill is staged at the RKO Keith Boston this week. That sparkling unit known as the Apollo Revue, the variety program, which is most balanced, Dave Apollo himself, reveals to be a big favorite with the audience, and means only to the "best" Dan Goodell, representing city of much talent.

The revue is colorful and teems with comedy, music and merriment. It is good for the audience, and the audience is an organization of real merit. The revue is colorful and teems with comedy, music and merriment. It is good for the audience, and the audience is an organization of real merit.

THE FOOTLIGHT FARE is the screen offering, which is a heavy-laden with intrigue and romance, but the story is a masterpiece. The story is a masterpiece. The story is a masterpiece.

LAST CHANCE TO SEE OTIS
There are only ten days left in which to see Otis Skinner on the screen at the RKO Keith in the film version of the world famous stage play, "Kismet," in which the artist, Otis Skinner, plays the never-to-be-forgotten character of the rascally beggar, Bazzed. Competent and screen players support the play.

A Program for Congress

• Short Session Can Accomplish Much

Now that the Senate has sidetracked for a year the foolish scheme of the internationalists to tie this country up to the League of Nations through its Court, the way is clear for Congress to pass at the short session domestic legislation urgently needed by the nation.

Right of way has properly been given to the emergency measures of Mr. Hoover to put men to work and help the victims of the drought to get on their feet again. These measures should be put into effect promptly in order that the relief they will afford may be quickly given.

Next in importance are the annual appropriation bills necessary for the support of the government.

Then should come legislation providing for the immediate deportation of all undesirable alien, and for the substitution of selective immigration for the indiscriminate immigration which lets in so many undesirable.

This legislation is of the utmost urgency because it will not only protect American wage-earners on the jobs they now hold, but will give jobs to thousands of Americans who have been deprived of their jobs by aliens who have no business to be here.

Other measures which the country has the right to expect the present Congress will pass before adjournment include:

1.—The Norris resolution submitting to the states for ratification a constitutional amendment abolishing the "lame duck" session and providing for the meeting of Congress and the inauguration of the President and Vice-President early in the New Year following their election.

2.—Completion of the legislation for the operation of Muscle Shoals in the interest of the public, instead of for the aggrandizement of the Power Trust.

3.—Authorization of ship construction for the navy that we may begin to build the ships so badly needed for our first line of defense.

4.—Passage of the Capper-Robison bill to create a department of education and wage upon illiteracy a warfare that will wipe out one of the worst of the foes of our own household.

"Where there's a will, there's a way." This program of domestic legislation can be completed at the short session if Congress will follow the leadership of genuine Americans, turn its back upon petty partisanship, and devote its time and effort to translating the public will into law.

Reed for America First

Senator and 9 Associates Apply Unchanging Principle

For his leadership in the patriotic service which the Committee on Foreign Relations performed when it postponed until December, 1931, the League Court treaties, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania is entitled to a public vote of thanks.

It was in response to his appeal not to jeopardize at the short session domestic legislation vital to the public welfare that the committee by a vote of ten to nine sidetracked the League Court treaties for a year.

In insisting that the committee, as the agent of the Senate, set an example to the Senate by placing the domestic needs of the American people above the needs of those who would have the nation mind everybody's business but their own, Senator Reed was upholding the best senatorial traditions of his state.

Eleven years ago the late Philander C. Knox, then a Senator from Pennsylvania, took the same stand when the League of Nations treaty first came before the Senate.

Senator Knox put America first then just as Senator Reed has done now.

And no higher compliment can be paid to Mr. Reed than to say that in the field of foreign policy he seems to be following in the footsteps of his illustrious predecessor.

Under the leadership of Senator Reed, the Committee on Foreign Relations, by postponing action upon the League Court treaties, has not only saved the annual appropriation bills necessary to support the government from probable failure at the short session, but has also quickened the enactment of emergency legislation urgently needed to relieve unemployment, restore confidence, revive business, and thereby hasten the return of normal prosperity.

Every one of the ten members of the committee who voted to sidetrack the League Court treaties for a year is entitled to national commendation, beginning with Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, who, upon his own responsibility, offered the motion that prevailed.

"Men and friends change," said Grover Cleveland, "but principles never!"

Under the leadership of Senator Reed, the Committee on Foreign Relations has made a timely application of the unchanging principle that with the American people America is always first.

Listen, World! :-: Big Game

By ELSIE ROBINSON
Querer Thing—Intolerance

I'M WRITING this on the day of the Big Football Game. For weeks people have talked of nothing else. Business is practically at a standstill. Every road leading out of the city is jammed. Every car wears the colors of the colleges. And a few miles away thousands of homes are yelling themselves hoarse, waving their arms, tearing at each other's clothes and acting like a bunch of wild beasts.

Yet here I sit. I could have gone to the Big Game. But I didn't want to go. I don't care for football. The most sensational conflict leaves me cold. Worse yet, it actually bores and disgusts me. The whole affair seems to me to be absurdly infantile. Something we should have left behind us with high school days. And I honestly believe that this craze for football is lowering the standards of our universities and retarding the development of our students.

And yet, if you should tell any one of those yelling humans that I feel that way, they'd say it was IM-POSSIBLE.

"Nobody but a nut would feel that way," they'd say. "She can't mean it. She's just trying to be different. Or maybe she's just a snob."

What is a snob, anyway? But, whatever it is, she isn't telling the truth. NO.

ONE CAN HELP LIKING FOOTBALL. It's the greatest game on earth!

That's what they say, and to me it seems the crassest intolerance. How dare they say I'm nutty because I don't like football? What's there about football, anyway? That's worth an adult's time? Rolling around in the dirt—acting like an idiot over a bouncing ball—yet I don't get excited over that. I'm con-fused! I don't like football! What's there about it? I'm glad I've a broader view of things. Thank heaven I'm not intolerant!

That's what they'd say and that's what I'd answer. And yet—Suppose someone said to me that they didn't like gardening. They thought it was going to get grubbing around in the dirt, moaning over roses and rhododendrons. Pretty enough, perhaps, but why should any serious adult spend his time fussing over a bunch of sticks and leaves?

Suppose someone said to me that I was a snob. I'd say it was IM-POSSIBLE.

Why, I'd say it was IM-POSSIBLE. "They aren't telling the truth," I'd say. "They can't mean it. They're just talking smart. Why, they can't help liking gardening. Everyone who's worth while likes gardening. It's plain nutty not to like it. It's the greatest fun on earth. Personally, I'd have grave doubts about the character of anyone who didn't like to garden. There's something wrong about a person like that."

That's what they'd say and that's what I'd answer.

Intolerance is a queer thing, isn't it? So easy to see in the other fellow. But, come to think of it, one never finds it in oneself!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

That New Aloof Shopping District

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—That new aloof shopping district, suddenly flung up around the Plaza fountain on 5th ave, has become the most exclusive trip in the city. By night it suggests the repulsive white of the Taj Mahal and by day a glorified and squirmy rue de la Paix.

Its shops offer a glitter—a new note in modern magnificence. Here one finds $4 a pound candy, $15 facial masks, $60 orchids, d'acous bouquets and perles of Arcady at $50 a can.

Some of the salons are in the ornate fronts of former mansions, flanking the district.

What was once the red-bricked chateau of Vanderbilt, perched in a snow white facade, housing a hat shop whose rental exceeds $100,000 a year and a dress-making parlor with a reputed rental of a quarter million. Cater-cornered is a stately bank of cream marble.

A beauty parlor with a black onyx from trimmed in white is out-fitted at a cost "higher than a cat's back." Another atelier entirely of chromium and beveled mirrors is a sunburst of silver splendor. Still another will offer a copper sheen of gold.

The whole effect has the clean, scored look of a Holland house front. I am told clerks in the area are paid one-third higher than those in other high class sections. Some wear frock coats and lapel flowers. The inward show is reflected by the outside display of door flunkeys in uniform.

When they appear for work in uniforms their rappings suggest the fanfare of the changing guards at Whitehall. One who caught my eye was adorned with a great coat of Delft blue and the spreading military caps was lined with something very like velvet.

Many establishments have what they call reception clerks who, instead of being a case, practice find out their desires and turn them over to the proper attaches. But the nearest touch is a beautiful Chinese girl in one place whose sole job is to hold lights for waiting ladies of gold.

No other business in New York is as in need of the "feminine touch" as the taxi industry. Tommy Mildard was being driven with neck-aching lunches at top speed to an address the other night. Finally he tapped on the window and meekly implored:

"Get me there alive if possible."

"It strikes me," postcards Dutch Red of Batavia, "all you do is wear your seat belt in a case, practice wearing a monocle and sir a lap dog. Have you no other gifts?"

"Your Child and Mine"

A Touching Picture and Letter From the Brinkleys, Mother and Son

Nell Brinkley, in private life Mrs. Bruce McRae, has drawn the beautiful picture at the left of this editorial for the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund.

With it she sends a letter, in the form of a "composition," by her son, Bobby, seven years old, who posed for the HAPPY child.

Bobby's composition is so good that we publish it here in full:

"THINGS I AM THANKFUL FOR"

"I am thankful there will be no more wars."
"I am thankful I am vaccinated."
"I am thankful I have plenty to eat."
"I am thankful there are no earthquakes in our country."
"I am thankful I have never had pneumonia yet."
"I am thankful that my family is not poor."
"I am thankful that I have a mother and father."

Bobby's list of blessings should insure him a merry Christmas. Like other fortunate youngsters, he has nothing to worry about, everything to make him happy.

We all wish that every child in the city might be equally favored, but we all know that there are many thousands on whom tragedy and want have laid their heavy hands. Except for the absence of wars and earthquakes, they have nothing to be grateful about. Some have no parents, some have not been vaccinated, some have pneumonia and all lack enough to eat for these children, more than for anybody else, that the Christmas Basket Fund has been established.

Miss Brinkley, in a personal note to the Boston Evening American, which we also venture to quote, says:

"Bobby (her little boy) is already sure of a happy time—he is well-fed, safe and smiling."

"The OTHER little child in the picture has perhaps heard discussions in an anxious family, and has a fear that children shouldn't have to know; yet, with a child's simplicity, believes that somehow Christmas is going to turn out wonderfully anyway. The Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund is trying to save this child's faith in Father Christmas."

"I could make a more sordid picture if I tried, but I can't draw a really wretched child. It is too true and real."

Many of you who read this have children, happy, healthy, contented and looking forward eagerly to Christmas, as children do.

You, and all others who stop to think, will be anxious to brighten the Christmas of the little fellow in the right-hand window here.

You can do so through the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund. No matter how modest your contribution, it will bring abounding joy to some child who still hopes there is a Santa Claus but who cannot be sure.

Charitable Stage Folk

They've Aided Mightily in Boston

There is an unanimity of opinion that the benefit performance staged by the actors for the Christmas Basket Fund of this newspaper was excellent.

In fact, some of our veteran readers whose observations are especially worthwhile because of their long experience suggest that in spontaneity of humor, in general ability and in versatility it was the best which Boston has seen.

In any event, it was a splendid demonstration of the charitable and kindly impulses of the ladies and gentlemen of the stage who volunteered their services and their art for this fund and for other like affairs.

Hard work on the stage is essential to success, as it is everywhere, and the stage has an active, insatiable competition which drains heavily upon the resources of the performers. As a result, their pranks and merriment at their histrionic skill, and yet we are apt to be unmindful that their ordinary day's work, already done, may have taxed their strength and nervous energy to the point of exhaustion.

These people give much to charity. They derive from it only the compensating knowledge of worthy deeds well done. Many a home in poverty would be made less cheerless by now be filled with an abundance of those good things that bring cheer on the Christmas holiday. The actors and entertainers are entitled to the gratitude of well-disposed people. Always first in responding to calls for charity or for the aid of their country, as during the war period, our stage folk have responded nobly during the Christmas season in Boston and throughout the nation.

The Chemical Kiss

Synthetic But Satisfactory

Well, you're wrong. When you kiss your girl you don't kiss her at all. You perform an experiment, involving thirteen chemicals, besides your own lips. The Scientific American announces this discovery, and obligingly adds a list of the chemicals.

In case you are interested, here is what it says: The skin on the face of a pretty girl contains water, 61 grams; albumin and globulin, 0.7; mucoid, 0.18; elastic, 0.84; collagen, 3.32; phosphates, 0.032; fats, 0.761; common salt, 0.45; potassium chloride, 0.04; lime, 0.01; also minute quantities of magnesium oxide, iron oxide, stannum oxide, and sulphur."

Make your own laboratory test, if you don't believe it.

Capital Silhouettes

By GEORGE R. BROWN

WEST ORANGE, New Jersey. It does look as though maybe Cat will be needing it again one of these days.

SOME DAY we'll probably get rid of prohibition when the enforcement of it interferes with a holiday season for Congress.

NO, YOU'RE mistaken, the new "Hoover dam" that you read about in the Congressional Record is not always spelled with the first letter. The Scientific American would have issued an imperial decree for Congress.

THE NAVY Department is already deciding to keep the old Mayflower in commission, and, by heck!
